

C) Applicant argument #3: "The Examiner's supervisor erroneously denies the applicant the right act as his own lexicographer even if it is to use the ordinary meaning of the term "home"

Response to C) The examiner and the supervisor has read and interpreted "home" in light of the specifications that "home" can be very broadly defined and can be interpreted in many different contexts. A thorough review of the disclosure did not disclose any specific definition of "home".

D) Applicant argues "The Examiner's supervisor introduced a new argument in his Examiner's Interview Summary for the telephone interview held August 25, 2005. This argument appears only in the Interview Summary. It was not discussed during the Interview. It does not appear in either the First or Second Office Actions. The Examiner's supervisor introduced a new argument in his Examiner's Interview Summary for the telephone interview held August 25, 2005. It was discussed that Ellis's definition of network provider included an individual and thus the definition of subscribe is the same as disclosure"
